A Tribute to My Husband

It broke my heart to loose you, the day God called you home. Part of me went with you, you did not go alone. I long for you, I cried and if love could have save you, you would never have died.

I Love You,
Wilma Jean "Cookie"

The Family

Flight 2-0-1-2 Is Heaven Bound

We all hold a ticket with a destination in mind. We'll board the plane on Judgement day; It can load and take off anytime with little or no time to pray. The Christmas Season has come and gone; friends and family were all aglow. Then God came in and called me home. I knew where I wanted to go. I'm at the airport of life, with my ticket in hand, the flight attendant spoke and looked around, anyone here going to the promised land? Flight 2-0-1-2 is Heaven Bound. He said, all of God's children to the front of the plane, come on board and have a seat, the Captain already has your name. There's someone special he wants you to meet. God flies the plane, there's nothing to fear, the runway is clear, wide and long. No clouds above, the sky is clear. In a moment all your troubles will be gone. Seatbelts were tightened, we began to roll. The engines made a powerful sound; I remembered the voice when we were told. Flight 2-0-1-2 is Heaven Bound!
